

At NextEnergy, we work with innovators to accelerate smarter, cleaner, more accessible solutions for communities and cities. Based in the center of Detroit's growing innovation district, we demonstrate and pilot technologies in real-world environments to gather data and diverse user-experiences. This process helps us to quickly scale and deploy solutions by accelerating commercialization specifically in smart mobility and smart grid.

Our corporate partners are able to leverage our depth of experience, technical knowledge and established network of partners to gain efficient access to the innovation pipeline to connect with promising solutions and innovators.
